¹ Green highlighting denotes products and Resellers of products associated with Suppliers currently named in either this suit or AdjustaCam II; Yellow highlighting denotes products and Resellers of products associated with no known Suppliers currently in either suit.

² Plaintiff's Opp., Exh. 2 identifies, for the first time, various products purportedly associated with various Suppliers named in the AdjustaCam II case for some Resellers. Defendants have not had sufficient time to assess these new allegations. However, because Plaintiff admits these new products are associated with Suppliers named in AdjustaCam II, these products should all be stayed for this reason and are irrelevant to the outcome of the Motion.

³ iHome branded products are associated with defendant Lifeworks.

⁴ Kodak branded products are associated with defendant Sakar.

⁷ Pixxo branded products are associated with defendant Auditek.

¹¹ Hercules branded products are associated with Guillemot Corporation, S.A. and Guillemot, Inc. (collectively “Guillemot”), a defendant named by AdjustaCam in a related case. In that case, AdjustaCam asserts the ‘343 patent against various defendants and states in its complaint, “GUILLEMOT’s infringing webcams comprise at least one or more of the Hercules webcams, including without limitation the Hercules Classic, Hercules Deluxe Optical Glass and/or Hercules Dualpix webcams.” (See AdjustaCam v. Atlanta Network Technologies, Inc., et al., Civil Action 6:10-cv-644-LED, Docket No. 1 (E.D. Tex. Dec. 2, 2010) at ¶ 33 (Exh. B)).
